FEDERAL ELECTION SPECIAL

September 2021

Hello there,

Come election time, we will have an important decision to make.

We will decide how Canada will address economic, social, and environmental issues like poverty, affordable housing, sustainable health care, immigrant and refugee settlement, and a workable strategy to address climate change.

Voting will help shape the Canada that we live in and that our children and grandchildren will inherit.

Your Vote will create the Canada that the rest of the world sees. That's an important job!

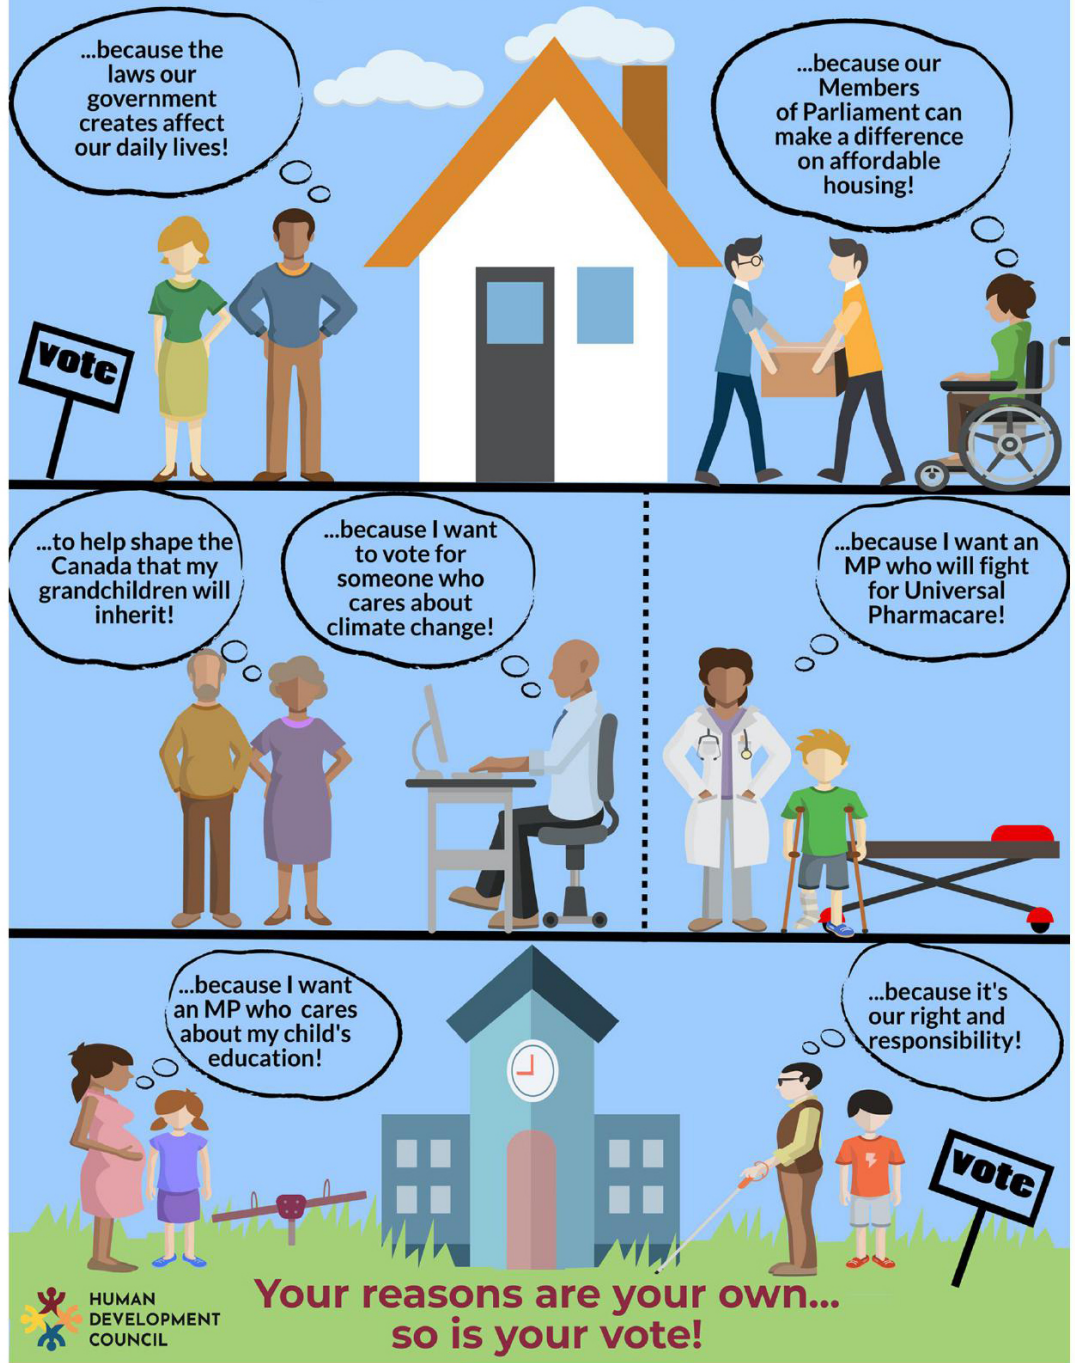

On September 20th, VOTE to make sure that the person you choose to represent you in Ottawa will help build your vision of Canada.

Voter Turnout in NB 2019 Federal Election NB 10 Ridings (%)

In the last federal election the Saint John-Rothsay riding had the lowest voter turnout rate of the ten ridings in the province.

Only 65.2% of eligible voters cast a ballot. Saint John-Rothsay had the lowest turnout rate in the federal election of 2019...and 2015...and 2011...and 2008. We can do better.

VOTE!

Along with the turnout rate, it matters who votes. Politicians and political parties, with their focus on getting elected, tend to target their platforms to the people who vote in large numbers. If those who stay at home are concentrated in certain groups – like New Brunswickers living in poverty – then, over the long term, their interests and concerns are likely to be ignored.
